Gossip

There are few things as dangerous as an open zipper! Just ask “Super Mario” Cipollini. If you were following the Tour de France, you heard that he was unable to display his sprinting prowess in this year’s race as he was home recovering from injuries sustained in a fall during a training ride. What you may not have heard is that he crashed hard when, during a June training ride, he took his hands off the bars to zip up his jersey and hit a pothole. The resulting face-plant put Cipo out of the game with cracked ribs and serious facial wounds. Dumb stuff happens to the pros, too. Fortunately, for the honor of Team U.S. Postal, just about all of the rest of cycling’s Big Guns were at the Tour giving Lance & Company a chance to show their stuff. As you know, the show went well.

It was thrilling, once again, to see the Tour de France nightly on ESPN and to see an American-sponsored team prove to all that they are among the world’s best. It was scary when Armstrong bonked on one of the mountain stages, but we always thrill when we see him attack in the mountains — dropping more than 100 other of the world’s best and running nose-to-nose with the Super Men of the tour. Magnifique! TV coverage was, we thought, excellent this year, even artistic at times. We hope that Outdoor Life Network can do as well next year when the Tour’s TV Torch is passed to them. When they reached Paris we hope you raised your glass high to Lance and Team USPS — cheers to you guys, you did us all proud!

See the women on TV this month! It’ll be the HP LaserJet Women’s Challenge on ESPN2 Saturday, Aug. 5, at noon, and Thursday, Aug. 10, at 2:00 p.m. The Women’s Challenge is a tough 11-stage event to be held in Idaho — so tough, in fact, that it is said it took 10 years to convince the international cycling body, the Union Cycliste Internationale (UCI), to sanction it because UCI felt the race, the mileage, the climbing, and the altitude were “too tough for women.” HP has a web site where you can follow daily race action: www.hplwc.com. You go girl!

We were sorry to learn that former Olympic cyclist and Tour de France stage winner David Phinney is afflicted with Parkinson’s Disease — the same nasty that we all heard actor Michael J. Fox has. He still rides, skis, and runs but the 40-year-old has to be careful; his energies come and go. He still hopes to be able to continue his work as a television commentator on bicycle racing on Outdoor Life Network with proper pacing of his travels and work schedule. In an interview with VeloNews Phinney said his family life with wife Connie Carpenter and their two kids keeps things in perspective. “There is a danger in getting too self-obsessed,” he said. “The kids are a huge help on that front... When I’m with them, then I’m not thinking that my arm’s not working or my leg’s not working.” God-speed Davis Phinney.

Nice interview published in the business section of The Plain Dealer on Sunday, June 25. It was Q & A with Andy Stewart, owner and operator of Bike One in Cleveland Heights. Our copy of the paper truncated the interview after the fifth question, but we were still glad to read what appeared under the headline, “The bicycle trade is always a labor of love.” It better be. Andy sez, in answer to “How much can you earn in this business?” that, in a good year, you might make $11,000 or $12,000. The owner is usually the last to get paid.” Think about that, please, before you insist your local bike shop give you a deep discount on that shiny new ride to match the price of a superstore somewhere. Just pay the man and know that you’ve now got a friend, locally, in the bike business whose expertise and services you can tap when you need help.

Sunday In June

A warm, sunny day (until the end) and 430 riders filled the roads of Geauga County as Sunday In June rolled off to a start.

On the way to Mesopotamia...

> An Amish couple approached from the opposite direction pulling a little red wagon with someone inside. Ah, I thought, taking one of their children back from Sunday services. No. Upon closer inspection it was grandma, enjoying a free ride home.

> Two little boys, perhaps 5 – 6 years old, both astride one small pony slowly making its way across a field to the fence to inspect me.

> A very proper older woman in fine Sunday dress at the Mesopotamia rest stop kindly offering us most of the pound cake left over from her family picnic.

> And on the way back to Burton, late in the day, a sag van stopped by asking if I wanted a lift back. "Looks like rain," he warned. I waved him away with the blithe comment "I've got a rain poncho." Five minutes later I was engulfed in a deluge, desperately struggling with my rain cape as the rain bucketed down. Where was that van now?

Well, John Gallovic, Andy Carpenter and Bob & I on our tandem were challenged (unspoken of course) not once, but twice to drag race Amish vehicles of transportation. "Clash of the Road Titans! SUNDAY! SUNDAY! SUNDAY!" First on our way to Mespo by half a dozen little Amish kids on two pony carts...they were really cute. Then later, after Mespo, by, I suspect, a teenage buggymaster, at the bottom of a hill. The pride of NE Ohio cyclists is in tact this June.... as we blew his doors (Do buggies have doors?) off!

Are you interested in planning Next Year's Sunday In June?

Another Sunday in June has come and gone. A good time was had by all, both volunteers and participants. It's not too early to start thinking about next year and SIJ 2001. While most of the planning occurs in the winter months when most of us only dream of cycling, the next few months should be spent looking for some club members new to the experience. Many of those who have planned the last few believe they've made improvements to both the experience and the club finances. We'll be around of course to help some and answer questions, but the event deserves new ideas and new perspectives. No experience necessary....most of us didn't have any when we started. The event has a legacy lending some ease to the process but nothing in that legacy is a tradition. Don't be shy. All Sunday in June 2001 needs is a member or group of members with interest in its continuation in some form, be it big and splashy or lean & stripped down. If you have questions about organizing SIJ or would like to volunteer, call Kim @ 440 543 2329. The CTC doesn't have regular monthly meetings. There are no "officers." Individuals volunteer to provide services or special treats through the year, SIJ, the annual picnic, the fall get-together, after-ride snacks, prizes at rides. Beyond the free labor of the those volunteers, funding comes through Sunday in June proceeds which have also helped keep membership dues down.

Missing Water Jugs

Search your attics, your basements, your grandma's barn! We're looking for a couple of missing CTC water jugs orange or blue in color. There's no reward except to get them out of your way! Call Kim @ 440 543-2329.

Weeknight Rides Are Fun!

If you haven't been riding weeknights with CTC you have missed out on some fun including a pizza party after a Thursday night ride, the famous pop (cycle) after ride treats that Tom Taylor likes so much and a CTC treat at the Kirtland Strawberry Festival. Also, you missed the longest weeknight ride on June 27th. The fast group did 46 miles in just 2 1/2 hours, which is a record, and the balance of the group did distances between 32 miles and 46 miles. The night was perfect and the scenery beautiful. Congratulations for taking the challenge.

Tuesday Morning Rides Again!

Aug. 1 Ride starts at Punderson Manor parking lot off 87 in Newbury.

Sep. 5 Rescheduled Rain Ride: Meet at Erie Shore Golf Course, 7298 Lake Rd., Madison. Ride to Jefferson, visit a train museum, 40 miles, rolling. Call for details: 440-951-9492.

Ride Schedule

Aug. 13 8:30 Burton to Mesopotamia(27), Mosquito Lake(48), Jamestown, PA (90), flat/rolling.

20 Landerwood. Tom Black's mystery ride.

27 Ferranté Winery covered bridge ride (20,40,60). Rolling/hilly.

Sept. 3 Northfield to Hinkley Lake, Medina (25,40,68). Rolling/hilly.

4 Monday Holiday! – North Chagrin Labor Day pick-up ride.

10 Gurney school to Newbury(20), Burton(35), Chardon(50). Rolling/hilly.

Team LEW

There was a lot of Team LEW racing activity in the month on June. On the first weekend, Brian and I went over to the Alpine Valley race in Chesterland to get muddy (we did). I was lucky to hang on for third in the Beginner Vet, while Brian worked hard in the Sport division, but ask him about it next time you see him.

One of our favorite local races is the Team Burn TT, held this year later (and warmer) than in years past. Five LEWers participated in the event, with Brian taking third in the Cat IV division, and I came in shortly behind him. Russ Marx did his usual damage on his "home" course, finishing first among his Team members. Kudos to Rudy Sroka and the Team Burn gang for continuing to put on this nice (and close!) event.

Scott Hoffman, Brian and I went over to Pittsburgh to compete in the ACA's Tour of West Deer. Brian got a short gap with 3 laps to go; I figured he'd be able to take the sprint for the win, so I rode in defense. I outlasted the chasers to take fourth in a fairly hilly race. Brian just missed the win against a formidable climber.

Reality struck in Bowling Green on the 23rd. With crowds swelled by GOBA being in town, the BG Classic Crit was run; Brian and I were in the 3/4 race, but not for long. After some hellacious chasing on our part, the pack caught us from behind, and we were pulled from the race (and it was the right thing to do—the course was EXTREMELY tight, and the pack very fast). Back into the hills on the 26th; Brian and I raced in the second contest at Pittsburgh (it is a 4 race series).

The Fourth came foggy and cool and nine Team LEWers showed for the Twin Sizzler in Medina. Brian, Scott and I opted for the expert races; unfortunately, that puts us in some heady company: Brian raced against the likes of pro MTBer Dave Walker, and Scott and I were in the same race with guys who aren't pros, but could play them on TV. Nevertheless, Scott gave it a charge in the sprint to beat the chase group in, and I picked off some fairly big names (who were coasting in), in my version of a print.

The guys who raced in the age groups did really well: Mike Drab took second and John Gusz took fifth (way to go MULE!) The really great thing was that we had a good part of the team there, got to take the Team pic, and saw a lot of faces we hadn't seen in awhile. For those who weren't there, you missed a great time!

Some great news came from the City of Bay Village late in the month: they OK'd our holding a criterium at the Community House area, which we'll call the Rose Hill Crit (Sat., July 29). At the same meeting, they gave approval for our Sunday morning TT on Lake Road (Aug. 26). Both races will start at 8 am, registration will open roughly an hour before. Last but not least, we obtained permission to hold a criterium in Canton with one of neighboring clubs, the Stark County BC. This race will be run on the day after the TT in Bay (Aug. 27).

Check out the rants and keep up with all the Team at: www.geocities.com/Yosemite/Trails/2665/racing.html#CONTENTS

Thanks as always to sponsors Bike Authority (formerly Bike Line), St. Jude Medical, GH Sports, ProGold, Aker Sign and Graphics by Lori.

Club Meetings - They're Back!

There will be a club meeting scheduled for Tuesday September 5 at 7 pm at the Brookpark Branch of the Cuyahoga County Library located at 6155 Engle Road. Meetings will be held at the Library the first Tuesday of the month in September, October, and November.

Four County Metric Invitational Ride

The challenging Four County Metric Century ride returns August 13 starting again at BW recreation Center in Berea, Ohio with two scenic routes of 40 miles and 62 miles. Registration will be from 8 am to 9:30 am. The ride will include food stops, maps, marked routes, SAG, and radio support along the route. Helmets are required for all riders. Contact Mike Woods at 440/871-1317 or email at: racelew@aol.com.

- Thursday evening @ 6:15 pm from the Amherst IGA parking lot (Quarry Rd & Milan Ave) except for meeting night, of course.

Check the OhioBicycle Events calendar for invitationals. Don't forget to check the baggage cart at the meetings for applications to various rides.

The Wheelmen had a pretty good turnout at GOBA. We counted 12 adults in Sheila's van on the first night's dinner run. Whew! Even though Saturday night (Sunday morning) brought a real storm and most of us got a little water in our tents, we held out awhile and the rain stopped. The only other bad weather we had was the tornado warning on Tuesday evening in Bellefontaine. A little moisture in the evening isn't too bad for a week in June! At least we didn't have to ride or set up camp in the rain. Mileages for members varied from about 300 to over 450. Most of us rode on Wednesday ... some the short (47) ride and others rode the metric. Nobody did the Century. All that rode were treated to Corkscrew hill south of Bellefontaine. I rated it as about 6 or more Mill Hollows (east side) strung together.

Check our website for the Tracks at <http://www.eriecoast.com/~lorainwheelmen/> for a serialized account of GOBA. It'll probably start in August. You can also find us through the link on CrankMail.com's club page.

Bikes Belong, as long as We're not in a Hurry...

CLEVELAND — On July 14, NOACA's governing board gave final approval to the $23.6 million relocation of 1.3 miles of Brookpark Road north of Cleveland Hopkins International airport (NOACA, the Northeast Ohio Area-wide Coordinating Agency, is Greater Cleveland's regional transportation and environmental planning organization). The project includes modifications to the Grayton Road / I-480 interchange and is necessary if airport expansion plans are to move forward. It's an important project for the region that NOACA officials unanimously supported, with one exception.

The lone dissenter, Westlake Planning Director Bob Parry (representing Westlake Mayor Dennis Clough), was not opposed to relocating Brookpark Rd. or modifying the interchange. While supporting the need for the project, he thought it was developed so quickly that its design failed to reflect NOACA planning goals that promote less polluting, cleaner, healthier forms of transportation.

As chair of NOACA's Bicycle Advisory Sub-committee, Parry has been a strong advocate for considering the needs of bicyclists while planning new or modified roads. Committee members pay particular attention to NOACA's transportation planning goals that advocate "a sustainable development approach, integrating environmental, social equity and economic perspectives" and "a more balanced transportation system which enhances modal choices by prioritizing goods movement, transit, pedestrian and bicycle travel..."

The bicycle committee has successfully raised the visibility of bicycling as a serious form of transportation, not just recreation. It reviews projects being considered for inclusion in NOACA's Transportation Improvement Program (TIP), making recommendations for improving cyclist safety. Dozens of project sponsors have accepted those recommendations, thus improving bicycle facilities across the region.

In the case of the Brookpark Rd. relocation, however, the fast-track effort to improve the region's economic competitiveness in air travel meant "non-traditional" forms of transportation on the new section of road were ignored. This happened despite the proximity of a substantial residential population, a large and growing employment base (NASA's Glenn Research Center and a planned industrial park, both to the northwest of the airport), and the Rocky River Reservation of the Cleveland Metroparks, a popular destination for walkers and bicyclists.

During the July 14 NOACA discussion board members acknowledged the need to reconsider the project's design and consider ways of accommodating cyclists.

A wider, 15-foot outside lane, for example, could safely permit cyclists to use the roadway, or a separate bikeway roughly parallel to Brookpark Rd. on the south side might be constructed. NOACA President Hunter Morrison is also the city of Cleveland's planning director, so his promise to go back to the city planners and consultants who worked on the roadway design makes it likely that a solution can be found.

The debate over this issue was respectful and concerned, a clear sign of progress from the days not so many years ago when comments about bicycle access were met with silence or dismissal as unimportant. We're not yet to the point where, as a matter of course, transportation engineers understand the need to design roadways with all users' safety and convenience in mind — motorists, transit riders, bicyclists, and pedestrians. When the urgency to do a job quickly is no longer an impediment to multi-modal planning, we'll have made the type of progress we're aiming at.

Lundberg: Gas Prices Still Not High Enough

Jan Lundberg formerly published the "bible of the oil industry," the Lundberg Letter. After a career-change toward conservation of energy, he now works to prevent the spread of pavement which covers up farmland and generates more motor-vehicle pollution. One reason for his agitation is geologists' recent estimates of oil's shortened supply-future.

Instead of giving the nation's gasoline reporters market analysis and the latest price changes, Lundberg analyzes the big picture in the Auto-Free Times Magazine which he publishes. As to recent occurrences of $2-a-gallon gas, he says: "Gasoline prices are dangerously low. Raising them is politically tough, so our road-fighting movement seeks to change land use and thus reprioritize funding toward alternatives to cars."

Lundberg has some answers to the coming crisis, but some are so low-tech they are fun: de-paving and bicycling. However, he warns that "The implications for today's vast petroleum dependence is that the mushrooming human population growth can terminate suddenly. This will be mainly due to lack of both local food supply and sustainable transport. While the U.S. loses three million acres of land per year to sprawl and shortsighted agricultural practices, sacrificing topsoil for short-term profit, the U.S. is gaining three million people a year (over two thirds of this from immigration). Says Lundberg, "conserving energy such as by rejecting the car as preferred transportation is critical.... Traffic gridlock, sprawl, smog, poison runoff, and carnage are all traced to an inefficient system that wastes air, land, and water, and treats renewable energy and train travel as poor stepchildren." In today's system:

- The average speed of the American motorist is amazingly low when adjusted for all the hours involved in car-use, earning money for buying the car, the gas, the insurance, the repairs, etc. When that number is divided into the number of miles travelled, the real speed is about 5 mph. This is walking speed, but without much benefit.
- More teenagers are killed by oil-consuming cars across the U.S. every afternoon than the 14 high schoolers gunned down in Littleton. The violence of U.S. transportation benefits mainly corporate jobs and profits.
- When the real costs of oil including "externalities" are factored into a gallon of gasoline, the price can exceed $15 per gallon. Subsidies for oil and driving mask the fact that cheap, abundant oil is ending soon geologically.
- More than 12 million Americans begin their commute to work before dawn, as time in the car increases.

Articles from The Auto-Free Times are viewable at: <http://www.tidepool.com/alliance>. Jan Lundberg now directs Fossil Fuels Policy Action Institute, a California-based nonprofit organization. ## The Prez Says...

Please welcome four new members Eric Hayden and Tom Byerly from Medina, also Lee and Brandon Eiwischer from Brunswick.

Well for those of you who haven't made it to Tuesday's ride lately the pace has picked up slightly and we have been seeing more new scenery thanks to Eric Schultz. Eric has the ability to put together a ride with the right miles and terrain, without ever looking at a map. I think he knows every road from here to Farfodle. We have several members that have had some great cycling adventures this year besides Lou and Tom, and I hope to have those stories soon.

For those of you that haven't heard Bike Nashbar sold out to Performance. I was told they were keeping the store in Youngstown open. I wonder if prices will be going up soon? DUH!! I don't understand why there are so many pages in the cycling catalog dedicated to women's apparel when so few of them come out to ride. Maybe they can't decide what to wear. Well we don't care what you wear (except for helmets!!) as long as you can ride.

Speaking of fashion, we still have jerseys left in all sizes, but hurry, they are going fast.

They are just the perfect thing to complete your ensemble and it won't be a problem if someone else is wearing the same outfit.

Many of us are planning on attending the Hancock Horizontal again. About ten of our members went last year and had a great time. If you want to attend and would like to share a ride and /or a room let me know and we will put you on the list.

For those of you that didn't make the A.B.C. (Akron Bicycle Club) ride in Medina they did a great job well organized and supported. And an incredible job selecting and marking the routes. In fact, I think I will coordinate with them and the T.D.C. Ride and save on paint next year. A couple more arrows out on Hubbard Valley and they might change the name to Little Big Horn.

As this is written, it's off to Junior Nationals we go, and the outstanding results continue. In Blaine, Minn., at the EDS Track Cup, Shan Rayray won the 500-Meter Time Trial putting her in excellent position (politics aside) to find a spot on the Olympic Team. Congratulations, Shan. Meanwhile, at the Marymoor Velodrome in Washington state, Alynda Boursaw, one of our outstanding Junior riders, placed consecutively 3rd and 4th in two women's events. Amara Boursaw and Grant Boursaw are also riding well.

At the Team Burn Time Trial in North Royalton, our riders closed out the podium in the Junior 18 and Under Division. Bryan Smith, First; Jeremy Smith, Second; and seven-year-old Branden Smith, Third.

Then the Juniors got really busy, riding three races in a two-day period. At the Kensington Park Road Race in Detroit, Mich., a LAJORS event, Jeremy Smith placed 6th among Junior Men on a course that featured over 850 feet of climbing on each 3.5-mile lap.

The next morning, Jeremy and his brother Bryan raced again at the Ann Arbor Festival of Cycling, a criterium in Ann Arbor, Mich. After a powerful attack and a couple laps solo off the front of the field, Bryan was joined by three other riders. Unfortunately, he wound up doing most of the work in the break (which came within 10 seconds of lapping the field) and was out sprinted by his three companions at the end to take fourth place. An outstanding finish, nonetheless. Meanwhile, after blocking very aggressively, Jeremy pulled his own solo, almost catching a chasing break of two riders on the last lap to finish seventh.

Then, that afternoon, the riders contested the Tour de Kids. In the Junior 12-year-old event, Bryan again made the break, this time with one other rider (who placed eighth last year in the National Road Race). Bryan was nipped at the line by a tire width to place second in a field of 53 riders. In the nine-year-old race, Jeremy (who is racing age 10, but is still actually 9 years old) won solo by over a minute. In the seven-year-old race, Branden Smith also won going away. Branden finished by himself, 42 seconds ahead of second place in a 1.2-mile race. Little Jakob Smith placed second among 84 six-year-olds.

Welcome to new members Yen To and Dick Rayray. Yen is a very strong espoir and Dick's advice and coaching are greatly appreciated.

Finally, for this issue anyway, Shan Rayray, again riding strongly, placed second in the Match Sprint at the HED Masters Challenge.

Team Fundraiser: No, we are not selling candy bars. Instead we are selling beautiful, long-stem roses. A dozen for $15.00. All proceeds go to USA Pista Elite's Junior Development Program. Please call MaryBeth at MaryBeth's Baskets and Candles, (440) 891-1406, or email to: MBbasketcandle@aol.com to place your order. Many thanks to MaryBeth's Baskets and Candles for generously donating the time and merchandise to make this fund raiser possible.

Again, many thanks to our sponsors who make all this possible: Anthony J. Smith Agency, Inc.; PyroApparel; and Ohio School Pictures.
